ORGANIZATIONAL INFORMATION

- Please confirm information submitted with your initial application.

NARRATIVE QUESTIONS

The Meyer Foundation has been operationalizing our strategic plan to center our priorities of racial equity and systems change at the core of our grantmaking and related strategies. As we move into fully realizing this more focused direction, we request that you provide the following information in your proposal. Please note that you will outline your progress on these objectives and outcomes in your final report at the end of the grant period.

Organizational and Programmatic Objectives

Question 1: Reflecting on the priorities you submitted in your application:

- Identify up to five organizational and programmatic objectives you intend to achieve over the next 12 months. Please note that you can submit fewer than five. (maximum 30 words for each)
- What are the expected outcomes for each objective? (maximum 150 words for each)
- How will you measure and track progress toward achieving your outcomes? (maximum 150 words for each)

Systems Change

Systems change has been defined as fundamental and lasting change in policies, processes, relationships, and power structures, as well as deeply-held values and norms that make systems operate in a specific way. For example, laws that limit eligibility for in-state college tuition to citizens are systemic barriers that make college more expensive and less accessible for many immigrants. Advocating to change those laws to open up eligibility is an example of systems change.

Question 2: Please identify up to two challenges that your constituents consistently face within the systems your organization works (ex. employment, housing, education). (maximum 500 words)

- How might your current or future work help impact those systems. (maximum 500 words)

REQUIRED ATTACHMENTS

- Most recent audited financial statements (if not attached above)
- Current balance sheet
- Year-to-date statement of activities (preferably compared to budget)
- Minutes from most recent board of directors' meeting

For October 2017 Meyer grantees only: The proposal, along with responses to the following questions, will fulfill your upcoming final report requirement. Unless your organization has not fully expended that grant, no further report is necessary. Please contact us if you would like to set a report deadline for a later date rather than reporting now.

- Have there been any unanticipated changes in your organization or the project since your last grant was awarded (such as executive leadership, board, facilities, location)? (maximum 250 words)
- Describe the impact your organization had last year on the communities and/or individuals it serves. What evidence do you have to demonstrate your impact? If you did not achieve your intended results, why not? (maximum 750 words)

Racial Equity in Education (REE) Request for Proposals Guidelines

Educational equity is a broad concept that involves interrelated issues regarding fair access to meaningful educational opportunities regardless of race, national origin, gender identity, sexual orientation, disability, or socioeconomic status, among other things. At the K-12 school-system level, issues that challenge educational equity include, but are not limited to: hostile school culture; exclusionary school discipline; police presence and school-based arrests; implicit bias; and a lack of awareness and training on social and emotional learning, trauma responsive practices, alternative discipline, and disability rights. For people of color specifically, these challenges to educational equity are the manifestation of deeply-rooted structural racism in the US, with parallels in every sector, which intentionally and unintentionally restricts their access to society's benefits. Achieving racial equity in education requires dismantling and replacing the structures, policies, and practices that have allowed racism, bias, and inequity to embed themselves in our education system, and eliminating the academic opportunity and achievement gap between white students and students of color.

As the Meyer Foundation moves increasingly and intentionally toward a focus on the pursuit of racial equity in education, the Foundation has adopted new language and funding criteria that emphasizes this commitment. Specifically, the Meyer Foundation's education program seeks to: identify the root causes that perpetuate inequities in education and pursue solutions that increase the likelihood that students of color are educated in schools with welcoming, supportive school cultures that are free of bias and discrimination, affirm their dignity and potential, and prepare them for college, career, and life.

In making this shift, Meyer will collaborate with diverse partners within and across the education system in pursuit of positive and affirming school cultures that would require: 1) changing or eliminating school discipline policies and practices that disproportionately impact students of color; 2) developing comprehensive systems of support for students of color living in challenging environments; 3) building school staff capacity through training, technical assistance, and professional development to enhance response to students; and 4) confronting and further analyzing the manner in which racism has embedded itself into the educational system. Meyer is particularly focused on ensuring that the voices of those most affected by the various inequities in education are elevated and centered in the work.

Meyer Racial Equity in Education

Within the broad pursuit of educational justice, one issue that exemplifies the prevalence of educational inequity, specifically as it pertains to race, is school pushout. School pushout is a term commonly used to describe the intentional and disproportionate enforcement of exclusionary school disciplinary actions (i.e., suspensions, expulsions, and arrests) against students of color, students with disabilities, LGBTQ and gender non-conforming students, and current or expecting parents. It is a term commonly used in association with the school-to-prison pipeline phenomenon whereby students who are pushed out of school are at significantly higher risk of being held back, dropping out of school, and becoming justice system-involved.

Meyer's Racial Equity in Education (REE) effort recognizes that increasing educational equity and combating the disproportionate enforcement of exclusionary school discipline against students of color requires a holistic approach that addresses the systemic and individual factors that shape both youth behaviors and adult responses. This initiative will strategically and intentionally incorporate each element of the Foundation's strategic plan (i.e., grantmaking, capacity building, collective action, and convening and advocacy) to promote racial equity and systems change.

The initial development of the REE initiative is largely the result of efforts by an advisory committee comprised of local nonprofit organizations and community leaders that, over the course of a year, shared their thoughtful insights and expertise about challenges and opportunities in pursuing racial equity and systems change in education. To support the ongoing development of the REE initiative, Meyer will continue engaging and growing the advisory committee, as well as regularly engage students, parents, teachers, and administrators to seek their insights and recommendations for achieving racial equity in education. Additionally, through the REE initiative, Meyer will continue developing its broader education portfolio specifically focused on the intersection of race and education.

Initial REE Goals

Meyer intends to sequence the rollout of REE, initially prioritizing funding for efforts focused on policy change, practice change, and culture change. One overarching goal for the first year of REE funding is to build a diverse learning community of organizations focused on achieving racial equity in education.

Policy Change

Legislative

- Ensure successful implementation, funding, and evaluation of the Student Fair Access to School Act (SFASA)

Institutional

- Ensure that all public and public charter Local Education Agencies (LEAs) have effective discipline policies (e.g., policies that ensure safety, identify root causes, and build social and emotional skills)

Individual/Community

- Drive policy change by supporting District students and their families with the necessary tools to create greater racial equity in schools through organizing, community education, and advocacy training
- Drive policy change by supporting District teachers and school staff with the necessary tools to create greater racial equity in schools through organizing, community education, and advocacy training

Practice Change

Training and TA

- Provide training, professional development, and technical assistance to schools committed to an equitable and evidence-based overhaul of their approach to school discipline (e.g., social and emotional learning; restorative practices; multi-tiered systems of support; threat assessment; cultural competency and implicit bias training; understanding child and adolescent development; understanding and responding to trauma; identifying and accommodating disability)
- Develop implementation guides for schools focused on adopting and adapting restorative practices, trauma-responsive supports, and other effective alternatives to school exclusion

Promising Practices

- Collect, draft, and disseminate case studies elevating promising local and national efforts that lead to reduced school exclusion, and improved school climate and culture
- Scaling or duplicating promising programs that incorporate restorative practices, trauma-responsive supports, and other effective alternatives to school exclusion

Individual/Community

- Drive practice change by supporting District students and their families with the necessary tools to create greater racial equity in schools through organizing, community education, and advocacy training
- Drive practice change by supporting District teachers and school staff with the necessary tools to create greater racial equity in schools through organizing, community education, and advocacy training

Culture Change

Individual/Community

- Drive culture change by supporting District students and their families with the necessary tools to create greater racial equity in schools through organizing, community education, and advocacy training
- Drive culture change by supporting District teachers and school staff with the necessary tools to create greater racial equity in schools through organizing, community education, and advocacy training

Research and Data

- Conduct research and collect data relating to educational equity in the District, with a particular focus on the intersection of race and education (e.g., publishing briefs and reports that support the acceptance of a new vision of school climate that emphasize supports rather than exclusion)

Communications

- Support communication efforts aimed at winning the hearts and minds of District residents so that racial equity in education and inclusion is a District Value (e.g., publishing op-eds or essays that promote a new vision for school culture that emphasizes inclusion, and coordinating strategic communication efforts that raise awareness of the harms that result from school exclusion and supports the development of new social norms to promote inclusion)

Convenings

- Convene dialogue circles in communities to build trust and consistently get real-time feedback from individuals who are most affected by educational inequities; and plan and host a large conference or summit for all interested community stakeholders to discuss the immediate and longer-term implications of school discipline reform in the District

---

Key Dates

- Proposals due: November 8, 2018 at 5pm EST
- Meyer board decisions: December 12, 2018

Grant Award Size and Grant Period

REE grants will range between $10,000 and $50,000. Meyer will do its best to make sure there is as close to an even distribution of funding across each REE focus area as possible. Initial REE grants will be for one-year, from the date the grants are approved in December 2018.

Evaluation

Meyer will work with an independent evaluator to help REE grantee partners further define and track progress toward achieving the longer term REE goals (policy change, practice change, culture change).

Learning Community

There will be an expectation that during the one-year grant period, REE grantee partners regularly convene to develop stronger working relationships, provide updates about their work, share promising practices, among other things. More details about the development of an REE learning community will be provided after grants are awarded.

How to Apply

The first round of REE grants will be awarded through an invitation-only application process. Prospective grantee partners will receive a link to apply.
